Excerpt: . nation is being produced which is superior to that inhabiting any other land, I do not find any signs of it in the statistics of self-destruction among the native-born in New York City. It is possible, of course, that suicide may be most common among the children of foreign-born parents, but such evidence as I have been able to obtain seems to show that the American system of living at high pressure --the haste to become rich--is not conducive to racial progress. To sum up: Suicide does not appear to any ap It is the fashion to speak of Americans as if there existed an American race, the prevalent idea being that, when three generations have been born in the United States, the race has been established. preciable extent among savages, but is a product of civilization; it depends chiefly upon some constitutional depravity, as is shown by its emanation from bad stock, by the hereditary character of the predisposition toward it, and by the fact that in transmission it is very often handed down exactly as are other pathologic variations depending upon constitutional degeneration. The time at my disposal compels me to devote the remainder of my paper to an attempt to answer the question, How can the brake be applied to racial deterioration, as evidenced by the increase of suicide? I do not wish it to be supposed that all members of every family in which epilepsy, idiocy, insanity, or suicide...
