Seppel, in his wish to possess the Craggs and marry Rosel, is ready to agree to anything, though I have counted over and over the income and expenditure, and proved to him that a few florins at the end of the year is all he can expect to put aside, and may be thankful, when he has a family, if he can keep clear of debt. Oh no I don't advise I leave everything to you Come, come, Craggs, said the forester, smiling, we all know your love of contradiction, but this is going too far. People say you have managed to save money, and I suppose your son can do the same. My savings are said to be more considerable than they really are, observed the peasant. After thirty years management of the Craggs, I have, it is true, contrived to scrape together a few hundred florins, but it is only since my sons could help in the work, and corn and cattle have risen in price. The house is now in want of repair. Well, said the forester, there is no denying you might have kept it in better order. What for? asked the peasant. May be that it might look handsomer when seen from the off house after I had resigned. No, no, forester, you don't know me yet I believe that's true, said Franz, who had latterly been...
