Excerpt: . . . 11 And so, you are correct in the sense that the leadership of that country continues to take them in a direction that does not serve our interest. CHUMER Senator S. Give me the logic as to why a weakening - it will be perceived as a weakening - of ILSA would change any of that. My guess is that if you talk to some of the young people, the dissidents, privately, they probably say, keep the heat on the Gov-ernment as much as you could. Mr. W. Senator, I guess I would say to that that we do not AYNE see a 2 year renewal versus a 5 year renewal as a weakening. It is the same law that we support renewing. We think it just makes sense to come together in 2 years and again have a discussion. CHUMER Senator S. We could do that anyway. We are open to dis-cussion. I am. I am sure all of my colleagues are, any time of day. We could have a discussion any time we sit. We could write in the 5 year that 2 years from now, there shall be a little conclave and we shall discuss this and reevaluate. But clearly, it would be perceived as a weakening. Whether you intend it to be or not, you certainly would admit that some could make the plausible argument that it is a weakening. And there are a lot better ways in my judgment of...
